THE PURANIC ADVENT OF LORD GANESHA IN KASHI

KASHI KHAND • CHAPTER 17, SHLOKA 19

अङ्गारक चतुर्थ्यां तु पुरा जज्ञे गणेश्वरः ।
अत एव तु तत्पर्व प्रोक्तं पुण्य समृद्धये ॥

"In ancient times, Lord Ganesha manifested on this holy Angarak Chaturthi (Krishna Paksha Chaturthi falling on a Tuesday).
Therefore, this sacred festival is declared supreme for multiplying virtuous prosperity and absolving all spiritual obstacles."

The Legend of King Divodas and the Astrologer Disguise

According to chapters 17, 56, and 57 of the Kashi Khand, while Lord Shiva resided in Mandarachal, Kashi was governed by a deeply pious, faultless King named Divodas. Under King Divodas's dharmic rule, every citizen lived in harmony, and by pact with Lord Brahma, celestial devas were restrained from interfering with the city.

Yearning to return to his beloved Avimukta Kshetra, Lord Shiva sent the sixty-four Yoginis, Lord Surya (the Dwadasha Adityas), and his Shiva Ganas to find some flaw in Divodas's administration. However, so captivated were they by the unparalleled beauty and serenity of Kashi that they all permanently settled in the city.

Finally, Lord Shiva summoned his brilliant son, Lord Ganesha (Vinayak). Assuming the guise of an elderly, revered astrologer, Lord Vinayak entered Kashi. He interpreted dreams and planetary alignments for the citizens, winning the complete trust of the Queen and subsequently King Divodas himself. Lord Vinayak advised the King that on the eighteenth day a holy Brahmin (Lord Vishnu in disguise) would arrive to impart profound spiritual knowledge. Heeding this advice, King Divodas installed a Shivalinga, abdicated his throne, and departed for the heavens, paving the way for Lord Shiva's triumphant return to Kashi.

Overjoyed, Lord Shiva proclaimed that Lord Ganesha would be worshipped as Dhundhi Vinayak at the gateway of Vishweshwar, and in eight concentric defensive rings forming the Fifty-Six Vinayakas (Chhappan Vinayak) to guard Kashi from every cardinal direction.

class="art-PostContent"> AA. DHUNDHI VINAYAK After Vinayak paved the way for his father, Lord Shiva made a grand entry into Kashi. Lord Shiva praised Vinayak for his deeds. The latter was called Dhundhi Vinayak. All devotees who come to worship Lord Shiva in Visweshwar temple will necessarily have to come across Dhundhi Vinayak as it is the entry point and they will worship him first. A person who worships Dhundhi Vinayak daily in the morning will find all his obstacles removed. A person who merely takes the name of Dhundhi Vinayak with full devotion will be blessed with all kinds of happiness.

Devotees should worship Dhundhi Vinayak on all Tuesdays. More importance is attached to Tuesdays coinciding with Chaturthi (fourth day after Amavasya or Poornima). A person who performs pooja of Dhundhi Vinayak in the month of Magha, Chaturthi after Amavasya will be blessed by God. (Skanda Puran, Kashi Khand, Chapter 57).

Later Shiva went on describing the various forms of Vinayak spread all over Kashi.

Shri Sakshi Vinayak Temple is one of the most spiritually pivotal Ganesha shrines in the sacred city of Varanasi. In the Sanskrit tradition of Kashi, "Sakshi" signifies the eternal "Witness". Lord Ganesha here stands as the divine notary and scribe of the cosmos who witnesses, confirms, and officially records that a pilgrim has successfully arrived in Kashi, taken bath in the sacred waters of Mother Ganga, and worshipped Lord Vishweshwar.

According to ancient Kashi Yatra tradition, no pilgrimage to Varanasi is considered complete or spiritually validated without performing darshan of Sakshi Vinayak. Devotees visit this sanctum in Vishwanath Gali to show their respects and declare their pilgrimage vows fulfilled.

The sanctum is prominently referenced across multiple chapters of the Kashi Khand and the website's pilgrimage guides as a primary geographic anchor in Vishwanath Gali. Immediately behind Sakshi Vinayak stands Kalipriya Vinayak (D-10/50) and the sacred Manaprakameshwar and Koti Lingeshwar shrines.

Pilgrims traditionally purchase holy red sacred threads, sweets, and coconut offerings here, and offer prayers so that their meritorious deeds in Avimukta Kshetra remain eternally witnessed by Lord Ganesha.

Ganesh Ghat Mandir is the iconic riverfront shrine presiding over Ganesh Ghat on the sacred river Ganga in Varanasi. Historically known as one of the prominent stone ghats of northern Varanasi (situated between Mehta Hospital, Bhonsla Ghat, and Bala Ghat near Agneeshwar and Nageshwar), it provides direct stone staircase access from the river to the sacred sanctum.

According to Kashi Khand and the website's ghat documentation, devotees approaching Agneeshwar, Nageshwar, and Mangala Gauri regularly arrive by boat at Ganesh Ghat / Bhonsla Ghat and climb the sacred steps to offer their first salutations at the Ganesh Ghat Mandir.

Worshipping the riverfront Vinayaka at Ganesh Ghat removes all travel exhaustion, cleanses obstacles accumulated during pilgrimage, and invokes the eternal blessings of Mangal Vinayak and Manikarnika Vinayak who stand vigil over the holy riverfront.

Pilgrims customarily take a sacred holy dip at Ganesh Ghat and offer fresh Ganga water, red hibiscus flowers, and modaks to the Lord before proceeding into the labyrinthine alleys of the city.

2. Sacred Offerings and Ritual Guidelines

- Auspicious Days: Tuesday (Mangalwar) and Wednesday (Budhwar) are the most sacred days for Vinayaka worship. Any Tuesday coinciding with Krishna Chaturthi (Angarak Chaturthi) is considered infinitely meritorious.
- Traditional Offerings: Fresh Durva grass (21 blades tied with red thread), fresh Red Hibiscus flowers, Modak or Besan Laddoos, Sindoor (vermilion paste), and Ganga Jal.
- Dhundhi Vinayak Protocol: By scriptural injunction in Kashi Khand Chapter 57, pilgrims must always bow before Dhundhi Vinayak before entering the Vishwanath Garbha Griha.
